Deliverable 5: Project Presentation

Introduction

This capstone project for the Data Analytics program gives you an opportunity to synthesize all aspects of your previous courses in a final, complete data analysis solution. You'll use all your knowledge to build an end-to-end solution and present it to a "client" (your classmates, instructor, and possibly industry guests). You'll use data analysis to provide real value to an organization or business.

Phase 5: Presenting Your Solution

A "Capstone Showcase" day will be scheduled where you'll have the opportunity to present your solution to your client, peers, and instructor.

1. Prepare a presentation to showcase your project to your audience.
 - a. Your presentation should summarize your objective, as outlined in your documented proposal, and demonstrate the completed, comprehensive solution that you built.
 - b. Use a combination of slides and demonstrations to show the extent and completeness of your effort.
2. Deliver your presentation during the "Capstone Showcase" day at the end of the program.
 - a. Your presentation should be 15 to 20 minutes long with an additional 10 to 15 minutes allocated for questions.
 - b. Your presentation should include an introduction to your topic including an overview of who your client is and the overall objectives of the project.
 - c. It should be clear what the benefits of your solution are and how these relate back to the overall objectives of the project.
 - d. It should be clear from your presentation that your project provides value to your client and supports their needs.
